PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

Criminal Justice is a multidisciplinary field of study which draws upon psychology, sociology, law, science, history and political science. It addresses issues pertaining to crime and victimization such as causes, consequences and prevention and focuses on the Criminal Justice System which has three main components: law enforcement, the judiciary, and corrections. With the skills obtained from this program, one will be able to take various career paths including working in international non-governmental organizations which address issues of human rights, sexual & gender violence, and juvenile delinquency.
